

This journal operates open access and subscription-based publishing options. The open access option requires authors to pay a fee upon acceptance of their articles for publication.

Since this author(s) chose not to pay a fee, his paper was published under the standard subscription-based option. So, the copyright for the published article was transferred to this journal.

For this reason, the reader is required to pay for the content that they read. It is only those who have purchased a subscription to this article that will have access to it. A flat rate of $20 is required to access this article.

To get access to this article or any other, please contact us through any of this email:

accounts@internationalscholarsjournals.org or info@internationalscholarsjournals.org

Differences between our open access and subscription-based options

There is a distinct difference between our open access and subscription-based publishing options.

Open Access Option

- It is free of cost for readers to access.
- A one-time flat fee called article processing charge (APC) has to be paid by the author to the journal publisher on behalf of the readers.

Subscription-based Option

- The readers pay to access the articles.
- No fee has to be paid by the author on behalf of the readers.

Open Access Mandate

Open access is an essential part of our commitment. To publish your articles in any of our open access journals, kindly visit this link, <https://internationalscholarsjournals.org/manuscript/>

We look forward to our working relationship with you as we believe this is the best way to identify, reach, and support open access for third world nations. We look forward to exploring these possibilities with you.